

AN ENTIRE PROVINCE WILL LOOK TO YOU FOR ACADEMIC LEADERSHIP

The province of Saskatchewan is seeking an exceptional physician leader in teaching, research and patient care. In this multiple appointment leadership role with the University of Saskatchewan and the Saskatoon Health Region you will work in a unique position to affect more than a million people as

Joint Head for the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine

You will lead a department that provides high quality and timely pathology and laboratory services to patients and their families across Saskatchewan.

In this pivotal academic and senior management position, you will drive change in a Department that is an academic resource for the province. In addition to being a provider of patient care, teaching and research, you will be an inspirational leader and manager. You will ensure enough qualified, motivated, and supported physicians to meet the needs of a rapidly increasing population and the concurrent expansion of undergraduate and postgraduate medical education programs.

With your background in Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, you have credentials in teaching, research, clinical practice and management. You are eligible for your Saskatchewan Medical License and for certification with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.
