

SALIVARY OR PAROTID SCAN

PATIENT PREPARATION

None

PROCEDURE

A radioactive tracer will be injected into a vein in the arm, followed immediately by images. After the first set of images, the patient will be given some lemon juice to stimulate the salivary glands, and then the images will be repeated. The procedure will take approximately 1 hour.